

Ch. 23-2 p. 577-583

The French Revolution continues

List at least 5 reforms the National Assembly made in the first years of the Revolution:

- 1.
- 2.
- 3.
- 4.
- 5.

What became the slogan of the Revolution?

What did the Legislative Assembly have the right to do?

What type of government did France now have?

See the chart on page 578 and answer the following questions.

1. What do the divisions in the Legislative Assembly say about the differences in French society? In other words, what types of people do you think would be members of the different groups?

2. What similarities and differences do you see between the political factions (groups) in the Legislative Assembly and those in the U.S. government today?

What do the guillotine, Maximilien Robespierre, Committee of Public Safety, and the Reign of Terror have in common with each other? Write a sentence or two using all terms.

Write the following events in order that they occurred.

War goes badly for the French, and mobs rule Paris.

Reign of Terror begins as radicals take over the government.

Assembly creates a constitution.

Terror ends as moderates gain control.

King is executed.

War with Austria begins when Austria offers support for Louis XVI.

1. _____.
2. _____.
3. _____.
4. _____.
5. _____.
6. _____.